

August 2018

Gendlin Grant for Original Research in Psychology

Award Year: 2019

Award Amount: Total award(s) up to $5,000

The inaugural Gendlin Center grant is a competitive award for promising original research advancing the Focusing process as an evidence-based practice. Priority is given to research design that has high potential for publication in a quality peer-reviewed journal. Depending on the needs of applicants, there may be several smaller awards or one award, for a total distribution of up to $5,000. Therefore, grant requests of any amount up to $5,000 are invited. Grantees will be expected to provide regular reports of progress; frequency of reports will be based on the expected timeline and determined at the time of the award. Evidence of publication within 3 years is expected unless otherwise agreed upon. Depending on the specifics of the grant, funds may be distributed over time or in one lump sum.

Applicants should include:

- a brief project description (up to approximately 500 words)
- a timeline and budget
- the researcher's institutional affiliation and major supervisor if appropriate
- at least one letter of support from home institution
- current CV/resume of the principal researcher(s)

Electronic applications preferred. Please email to GendlinCenter@focusing.org. Hard copies can be sent to:

The International Focusing Institute/ Gendlin Center
15 N. Mill St., suite 210
Nyack, NY 10960
USA

We invite inquiries in advance of the application. If you have questions please contact GendlinCenter@focusing.org.

Applicants will be notified of receipt of completed application.

The Gendlin Center Steering Committee may request more details or an interview with the applicant(s).

Completed applications are due by December 1, 2018.

Notification of award or rejection can be expected March 30, 2019.